

Harry Livingston's call yesterday, 12/13 12/14

He phoned while I was reading and correcting what I had written, with enough room not covered by that work for only a small scrap of paper on which I was making notes relating to correcting the writing. When I returned to it this morning on the scrap of paper I found a note on what he'd said in response to my telling him he had been getting information on me from Paul Rothermel, the informing being what I had written Rothermel more than two decades ago. I had begun by asking him how his interest in me fit in with his claiming to be investigating the successful JFK assassination conspiracy other than with me involved in the conspiracy he imagined. My note on his pretended response is what he said, that he "had access to some of Garrison's files from another researcher." I doubt any of Paul Rothermel's records were given to Garrison. He did not trust Bill Boxley, sent to him by Garrison. Files to which he had had access are Bud Fensterwald's at ADAC, but no reason to believe any of these letters are there. I think he was avoiding answering, which amounts to lying. He did lie in denying he had outlined his Farewell America concept of the assassination to me. He was quite explicit on that.

"Said he had three sources" seems to refer to his claim that I had told Gary Ferrell that he had threatened me, the ostensible purpose of his call. If that is what he said it also is a lie.

He repeated still again that he is on the verge of breaking the case open.

He said he is getting help from present and former FBI agents from a judge.
